

RAGA

Raga: A department of hopeless semantics, where farcicality breeds content, and Homer is where the heart lies.

Do we sing classical music? No.

Do we tolerate terrible grammar? (reaches for SpellCheck / heavy dictionary to throw at you)

Do we write stories which leave you wanting more?

(Well....we hope we don't have to answer that)

Officially, Raga is Malhar's creative writing department. But we manage a number of other tasks as well.

The Rules and Regulations that you now cradle, in paper or plastic, has been painstakingly assembled, edited and laid out by Raga. We also champion the (un) official voice of Malhar- The Malhar Blog.

This year we are also planning something Marvel-lous and no, we are not trying to DC'eve you.

Raga '15- For letter or for verse.

RAGA RECOMMENDS!

Event Locator

Lost in the crowd?

Want to know where your favourite event is and can't find a physical copy of the Raga at hand? Or just searching for an easy way out to have fun?

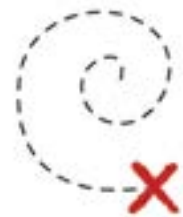

We bring to you-Raga Recommends!

Catch up with your favourite event at their location as this year we come out of the magazine and into a giant screen strategically placed near you! The screens will contain a synopsis of popular Malhar events and their location. We might even include a tip or two on how to get quicker access.

Maybe.

All day

LED Screens on campus

A COMICAL TURN OF EVENTS

The Raga Comic Con

We have always been enthralled by the "super" in every hero, the POW which leads to the arrest of a notorious villain, the costumes, the gadgetry-Comics. Love 'em, Hate 'em. You can't live without them.

This year, Raga presents to you A Comical Turn of Events.

Featuring easily affordable comics across a wide range of genres- DC, Marvel, Tinkle , Amar Chitra Katha and more.

All day

Classrooms

This is not the Comic Exhibit Malhar needs, but it is the one it deserves....

THE RAGA

The Malhar Newsletter

The daily publication from Malhar's official creative writing department; capturing every moment of Malhar and including the best prose and poetry the Workforce has to offer! Combining creativity with all things mundane has always been our speciality, and we offer you the chance to pick up our self designed and assembled work at stalls located at strategic points in college.

Oh, don't worry about reaching for your wallet- our publication is absolutely free.

And glossy.

Did we mention the Map at the back?

All day

Found
with a Raga
volunteer near you

THE MALHAR BLOG

One-stop for all needs Malhar!

"Blogging is a conversation, not a code."

-Mike Butcher

Raga and The Malhar Blog are back this year, trying to stick to just that.

In the weeks leading up to Malhar, have your fill of workforce antics, contingent stories and everything in between. Events, Management, Organising Committee, woes over low pocket money and expensive movie tickets-we bring you tales of exhaustion and sheer joy, funny quips and pizzaaaaz-especially lots of the last!

Featuring anecdotes of the tales of Malhar 2015, with humour and sarcasm infused in them, the Malhar Blog is the un(official) voice of Malhar. Join us as we chronicle the life and times of Malhar 2015 with a little hilarity and a lot of ridiculousness.